Transitioning from Lockdown to the New Normal

Back in May, Anna Powis, HR Director with MSI Group Ltd, shared with us their experience of how they coped with the first three weeks of lockdown, transitioning 130 staff to working from home in the middle of a global pandemic.

Anna updates us now on how they are dealing with getting back into the workplace, amidst measures which are making our working environments not quite as normal as they once were. Here we learn about the impact of Reverse Culture Shock on staff, how to ease nerves about getting back into the workplace and what the future may hold.

MSI Group Ltd is a Healthcare Recruitment organisation, specialising in NHS placements.
